It is a 5-night, 6-day guided tour running south to north, from Lisbon to Porto. You are met at Lisbon airport on day one and the tour ends after breakfast and check-out in Porto on day six. A Porto to Lisbon version of the same route is also available if you would rather finish in the capital.

What does the day-by-day route cover?

Day one is arrival in Lisbon with a welcome dinner. Day two is a full city tour of Lisbon. Day three takes in Sintra, Cabo da Roca and Obidos before an overnight near Fatima. Day four visits the Sanctuary of Fatima and Aveiro, ending in Porto. Day five is the Douro region, with Regua, Pinhao and a river cruise. Day six is check-out after breakfast.

What is included in the tour price?

Included are bed and breakfast from the night of day one to breakfast on day six in a four-star hotel, one lunch at a quinta, drinks at meals, a grand tourism coach and a tour guide per the programme, entrance fees to the church and cloisters of the Jeronimos Monastery in Lisbon and the City Palace in Sintra, the visits and tastings in the programme, the Douro boat trip, and dinner every night including a Fado evening in Lisbon.

What kind of hotels are used?

Accommodation is in four-star hotels on a bed and breakfast basis, from the night of day one through to breakfast on day six. You stay two nights in Lisbon, one night in the Fatima area and two nights in Porto, so there are only two hotel changes across the whole tour. Exact hotel names for your departure are confirmed with your booking.

Which meals and drinks are included?

Breakfast is included every morning and dinner every night, plus one lunch at a quinta in the Douro on day five. The other lunches are free time so you can eat where you like. Drinks are included with the included meals at a set allowance per person, covering water and a house beverage; anything beyond that allowance is payable locally.

What do we see in Lisbon on day two?

The day covers Belem, where many of the great Portuguese explorers set out, with the Tower of Belem and the Hieronymite Monastery, and a chance to try the famous pastel de Belem. In the afternoon you visit Alfama, the oldest district of the city, and climb to a belvedere for the view over the rooftops. Lisbon is the city of seven hills, so comfortable shoes matter.

Is entry to the Hieronymite Monastery included?

Yes. The entrance fee for the church and cloisters of the Hieronymite Monastery, also known as the Jeronimos

What is the Alfama district?

> Alfama is the oldest neighbourhood in Lisbon, a hillside maze of winding streets, flowered balconies and small squares that survived the 1755 earthquake. It is also the traditional home of Fado. The tour walks through it and climbs to a belvedere viewpoint, which is the best vantage point in the city for photographs over the terracotta rooftops.

What is the Palace of Sintra and what else does day three include?

> The Palace of Sintra is the best-preserved medieval royal residence in Portugal, and entry is included. Sintra itself combines hilltop fortifications, fairytale castles, forest and elaborate gardens. The day also includes a taste of the traditional Queijada dessert, a stop at the cliffs of Cabo da Roca, the westernmost point of continental Europe, and free time for lunch and shopping.

What is Obidos and what is the Ginginha tasting?

> Obidos is a hilltop town encircled by a fortified wall, with exceptionally well-preserved medieval architecture inside. The visit includes a tasting of the local Ginginha speciality, traditionally served in a small chocolate cup, and the chance to watch a local artisan hand-painting tiles. Both are included in the tour price.

What is the Sanctuary of Fatima visit?

> On the morning of day four you visit the Sanctuary of Fatima, a group of Catholic religious buildings that forms one of the most important pilgrimage sites in the world, with lunch and free time afterwards. Because you stay nearby the night before, you have the chance to see the site in the evening as well as by day.

What is Aveiro and the Moliceiro cruise?

> Aveiro is called the Venice of Portugal for the canals that run through it and the moliceiros that work them, small brightly coloured boats with painted bows and sterns, once used to harvest seaweed. A mini-cruise on a moliceiro is included. You also stop at the railway station to see the tile panels on its facade illustrating the monuments of the region.

What is the Ovos Moles workshop?

> Ovos moles are Aveiro's signature sweet: a soft egg-yolk and sugar filling inside a thin wafer shell, sometimes with chocolate. A short hands-on workshop on how they are made is included on day four, along with a tasting. It is a genuinely local speciality with protected status, and a good souvenir to take onward to Porto.

What happens on the Douro day?

> Day five is a full day out from Porto. You travel to Regua, the capital of the Douro region, for sightseeing and a tasting at a local estate, then a hearty lunch at a quinta. In the afternoon there is a two-hour boat trip from Pinhao to Tua and back, with a stop at the historic Pinhao railway station and its tile panels, before dinner back in Porto.

What is the Fado evening?

> One of the included dinners in Lisbon is accompanied by live Fado, the melancholy Portuguese song style recognised by UNESCO as intangible cultural heritage. It is included in the tour price rather than sold as an optional extra, and it comes early in the itinerary, which sets the tone for the rest of the journey north.

Can this tour be combined with a luxury train journey?

> Yes, and finishing in Porto makes that easy. It works as a pre-tour before the Trans-Iberian Express, El Transcantabrico Gran Lujo or the Costa Verde Express, all of which continue into Spain. As Official Representative and Authorized Renfe Sales Agent for Spain's luxury trains, we can book both and line up the dates so the connection works.

What is the lead-in fare and what does it mean?

> The lead-in fare is from about 2,475 euros per person sharing a twin or double room. It covers the five nights of four-star hotel accommodation with breakfast, all dinners, the quinta lunch, the coach, guide, included entrance fees, tastings and the Douro boat trip. Fares vary by departure date, so the exact fare for each date is shown on this page.

Is a single room available for solo travellers?

> Yes, a room for sole use can be arranged on request at a supplement over the sharing fare. The supplement depends on the hotels held for your particular departure, so it is quoted individually rather than published. Ask a travel specialist and we will confirm the single rate in writing before you book.

What deposit is required and when is the balance due?

> A deposit of 25 percent of the tour price confirms your place and your rooms, with the balance due 65 days before departure. Bookings made inside 65 days are payable in full at the time of booking. You receive written confirmation showing the exact amounts and the due date once your booking is held.
