Later, reboard the train as night falls. The Bar Car awaits with live music and after dinner drinks, creating a night of unforgettable elegance.

DAY 2

In the afternoon, witness a truly unique experience as the train is decoupled and loaded onto a ferry to cross the Strait of Messina, a spectacle that merges engineering with scenic beauty. Once in Sicily, the train continues to Taormina, a jewel of the island where ancient theatres and panoramic views enchant the senses. Here, local assistants invite you to explore freely or select from curated à la carte experiences that reveal the city's history, art, and culinary delights.

As evening descends, return to La Dolce Vita Orient Express. The Restaurant Car offers an elegant dinner curated by Chef Heinz Beck, accompanied by live music, as the train departs for its final leg toward Palermo.

Frequently Asked Questions

How long is the Rome to Sicily journey on La Dolce Vita Orient Express, and what is the route?

It is a 3-day, 2-night journey with both nights spent on board in your cabin. You depart Rome in the morning, call at Maratea on the coast of Basilicata, cross to Sicily for Taormina, and disembark in Palermo on the third morning. The full routing is Rome - Maratea - Taormina - Palermo.

What happens on the first day between Rome and Maratea?

Your journey starts with a private transfer from your hotel or the airport to the La Dolce Vita Lounge inside Roma Ostiense station, where you are welcomed before boarding. The train leaves Rome in the morning and a gourmet lunch is served in the Restaurant Car as the Italian countryside passes the window. In the afternoon you reach Maratea, where local assistants meet you on the platform.

What is Maratea and why does the train stop there?

Maratea is known as the Pearl of Basilicata, a small town set between the Tyrrhenian Sea and green mountains on Italy's southern coast. It is famous for its churches, its clifftop setting and the beaches below. The stop gives you an afternoon in a place most rail travellers never see, with local assistants on hand to help you explore.

Is it true that the train is loaded onto a ferry to reach Sicily?

Yes. On the second afternoon the carriages are uncoupled and rolled onto a ferry to cross the Strait of Messina, then reassembled on the Sicilian side. It is one of the most talked-about moments of the journey and one of the very few places in the world where a luxury train travels by sea. You can watch the crossing from the ferry deck.

What can I do in Taormina on the second day?

Taormina sits high above Sicily's eastern coast and is celebrated for its ancient theatre, its views over the Ionian Sea and its elegant streets. Local assistants welcome you on arrival and you are free to explore at your own pace or choose from curated a la carte experiences covering the town's history, art and food. You rejoin the train in the evening for dinner on board.

How does the journey end in Palermo?

On the final morning a leisurely Italian breakfast is served in your cabin or in the Restaurant Car as the train approaches Palermo. You disembark into a city of markets, cathedrals and layered Arab, Norman and Baroque history. Many guests add a night or two in Palermo before flying home, and we are happy to help you plan that.

Which cabin categories can I book on this journey?

Two categories are offered on this itinerary: the Deluxe Cabin and the Cabin Suite. The train carries 12 Deluxe cabins, 18 Suites and the signature La Dolce Vita Suite, with interiors inspired by Italian design of the 1960s. Availability by

How much does the Rome to Sicily journey cost?

Fares start from EUR 7,880 per person based on two people sharing a cabin. The rate varies by cabin category and departure date, and the exact fare for each departure is shown on this page. All meals, selected beverages and the off-train experiences described in the itinerary are already part of that fare.

Can I travel on my own in a cabin?

Yes, solo travellers are welcome and a single-occupancy fare applies. Because a cabin sold to one guest is taken out of double inventory, the single rate is higher than the per-person sharing rate; it is shown for each departure on this page. Contact us and we will confirm the single fare and availability for the date you want.

What is included in the fare for Rome to Sicily?

The fare covers accommodation on board in your chosen cabin category, all meals - breakfast, lunch and dinner - with menus curated by three-Michelin-starred Chef Heinz Beck, and selected beverages on board. It also includes the off-train excursions and experiences described in the itinerary, live entertainment in the Bar Car and a dedicated cabin steward.

What is not included in the price of this journey?

Travel to Rome and onward travel from Palermo are not included, nor are personal expenses, gratuities or travel insurance. Optional a la carte experiences chosen locally are charged separately. In short, anything not expressly listed in the itinerary is not part of the fare.

Are all meals included, and who is behind the menus?

Yes, every meal on board is included: breakfast, lunch and dinner. The menus are curated by three-Michelin-starred Chef Heinz Beck and built around seasonal, locally sourced ingredients that echo the regions the train passes through. Breakfast can be served in your cabin or in the Restaurant Car, and dietary requirements can be arranged if you tell us in advance.

What is the Bar Car like in the evening?

The Bar Car is the social heart of the train, with live music playing into the night and the mood of Italy's golden age of travel. Selected beverages are included, and it is where guests gather before dinner and stay on afterwards. It is relaxed rather than formal, and entirely optional if you prefer a quiet evening in your cabin.

What deposit is required, and when is the balance due?

A deposit of 30 percent of the tour price confirms your cabin and is non-refundable. The balance is due 125 days before departure, and bookings made within 125 days of departure are payable in full at the time of booking. Your written confirmation shows the exact amounts and the dates they fall due.

Can children travel on the Rome to Sicily journey?

Yes. Children under 5 travel at the child1 rate and children aged 5 up to 12 at the child2 rate, with the age counted at the date of departure. Children share the cabin with accompanying adults, so the cabin category you choose sets the space available. Tell us the children's ages and we will quote the exact family total.

Which departure dates are currently on sale for Rome to Sicily?

Departures run through the 2027 season, with the first on 20 May 2027 and the last on 5 October 2027. Ten departures are currently loaded and every one of them is listed on this page with its own fare. Cabins on this train are limited, so popular dates close early.

How do I get to Rome for the start, and home from Palermo?

Flights are not included, so you arrange your own arrival into Rome and your departure from Palermo. Most international guests fly into Rome Fiumicino and out of Palermo's airport, which has good connections to Rome and other European hubs. A private transfer from your Rome hotel or airport to the La Dolce Vita Lounge is part of the journey.

How much walking is involved off the train?

The journey itself is gentle, but Maratea, Taormina and Palermo all involve walking on cobbled streets and some slopes, since these are historic hillside and seaside towns. There is no strenuous activity, and you can always stay on board or take things slowly with your local assistant. Let us know about mobility needs and we will flag them ahead of your departure.

Are the stops in Maratea and Taormina guided, or is it free time?

Both, depending on what you want. Local assistants meet the train and accompany you into town, after which you can explore freely or pick from curated a la carte experiences that go deeper into the history, art and food of each place. The a la carte options are booked and paid for separately from the journey fare.
